Resistance to surface wetting

Objective

This test is used to evaluate leather water repellence

Principle

The test consists of applying a standardised spray to a leather sample to be tested. The degree of leather wetting is compared with photographic standards. The final evaluation is made by comparing the appearance of leather with photographic standards.

Type: Physical and mechanical test
Standard: EN ISO 17231
Products: Leather / Leathergoods
Criteria: Color fastness

Last modified on 2025-04-15